

2012 CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

The CIHR Social Research Centre in HIV Prevention (SRC) is seeking proposals from outstanding scholars interested, or currently engaged in HIV prevention social research at the Masters, Doctoral, and Post-Doctoral level.

The CIHR Social Research Centre in HIV Prevention (SRC) is a not-for-profit Canadian interdisciplinary network of social researchers, community leaders, public health practitioners and policy makers committed to advancing HIV prevention efforts through novel approaches to social science research, capacity building and knowledge transfer and exchange (KTE).

This Awards program is intended to:

1. Support scholarly research in the field of HIV prevention social research;
2. Support scholarly research in Aboriginal HIV health research (LaVerne Monette Award);
3. Foster the continued development of Canadian HIV prevention research capacity;
4. Advance knowledge transfer and exchange between researchers and stakeholder groups to advance HIV prevention policies and practices;
5. Engage new researchers in an innovative Canadian network committed to addressing the social and structural drivers influencing effective HIV prevention in Canada and abroad.

Information regarding the Program's eligibility criteria and guidelines on how to apply can be found on our website at:
